PENN AND HARVARD IN TRACK MEET

First Cinder-Path Engagement Between Two Universities Since 1897 on Franklin Field Today

EXPECT CLOSE FINAL SCORE

Pennsylvania and Harvard will meet on Franklin Field this afternoon at 1 o'clock in the first track engagement to be filled by the two institutions since 1897.

It will be the first dual engagement for Pennsylvania and the second for Harvard. Last Tuesday State College defeated the Cambridge athletes 61 to 57 after less than two weeks' outdoor practice for the Crimson.

Harvard will depend in the track events on Ned Hartlein and Captain Dennis O'Connell. Gourdin ran the 100 in 9.4-5 seconds at State College and hopes to duplicate this afternoon.

He is expected to win the century and the broad jump, but in the 220 he will have Bob Manning, the Penn flyer and second in the Intercollegiate last spring, to contend with.

O'Connell is the star miler of Harvard and winner of the event in the Intercollegiate in 1919. Last year he was unable to compete because of an injury.

Harvard's main strength is in the field events. Against State thirty-five points were scored by the jumpers and shot men.

Chapin, Kennedy, Cot and Sinte are the middle-distance stars, while the mile and half mile runs of Beards and Rowcott, the cross-country stars of the Crimson, are entered in the two-mile and five-mile events.

Penn's dependables are expected to lead in the 100 yard and 220 yard sprints, the 400 yard and 800 yard races, the 1500 yard and 5000 yard events.

100,000 AT BRITISH FOOTBALL FINAL

Thousands Wait All Night in Rain to See Tottenham Beat Wolverhampton 1-0

TRAMP MILES TO MATCH

London, April 23.—The Britisher's traditional love of sport was well exemplified today when 100,000 football fans gathered at the great stadium at Stamford Bridge for the English Association championship game between Wolverhampton and Tottenham.

Through the night many had waited for the opening of the gates, and at 10 o'clock, despite a cold rain that was falling, at least 15,000 enthusiasts trooped in, dressed in their best, but cheerfully prepared to wait five hours for the beginning of the game.

Many people, either from love of walking or from lack of funds, tramped scores of miles from adjoining cities to the scene of the match.

LOCAL GOLFERS IN TRENTON COURNEY

WITT'S PLEASANT AFTERNOON

First of Season Attracts Stars Out of Hibernation—Exhibition in Jersey Tomorrow

HARD TO QUIT GAME

By SANDY MENTBLICK

There is considerable pattering in local golf circles these days about the Trenton invitation tournament next week which is to be the early opening of the season for both the metropolitan and Philadelphia districts.

Though "Woodie" Platt, city champion, will be sailing for foreign parts, and there is no in the Jersey gathering, the first two other ranking local players will compete at Trenton.

The fair weather that has abounded through the winter has the local masculine talent eager to get started on the season.

The alibi rarely is about to begin. More emotion is registered on a golf course than in any other line of endeavor. It's the nature of the breed that keeps "em excitedly at the game. Though you get ever-increasing recruits to the game you seldom hear of deserters.
